

Help end-users guide the development of the new tools needed to support their needs

Encourage the adoption and use of new methods and approaches by federal agencies and regulated industries

Foster the use of efficient, flexible, and robust practices to establish confidence in new methods